Richard M. Lee, MD

Chief, Division of
Medical Oncology

Dr. Lee was born and raised near Detroit, Michigan. He was accepted to medical school directly from high school, and graduated from the University of Miami in just two years, while also being awarded a National Merit

Scholarship. He started medical school at age 20, obtaining his medical degree from the University of Miami School of Medicine in Miami, FL. He then trained at Loyola University Medical Center in Maywood, IL, for his internal medicine residency. Dr. Lee received his fellowship training at Boston University Medical Center in Boston, MA, where he also served as the chief fellow for the program. Following his fellowship, he joined the prestigious South Shore Hematology/Oncology Associates, P.C., which joined South Nassau Communities Hospital as an affiliated practice in 2014. Dr. Lee has cared for residents of Long Island for his entire post-training career. Dr. Lee has served as the chairman of the multi-disciplinary tumor board at Mount Sinai South Nassau since 2010 and has served as the chief of the Division of Hematology and Medical Oncology since 2018.
